PART IIIA

UNFAIR CONTRACT TERMS

Interpretation for purposes of Part IIIA

24A. In this Part—

- (a) “contract” has the same meaning as assigned to it in section 2 of the Contracts Act 1950 [Act 136];
- (b) “standard form contract” means a consumer contract that has been drawn up for general use in a particular industry, whether or not the contract differs from other contracts normally used in that industry; and
- (c) “unfair term” means a term in a consumer contract which, with regard to all the circumstances, causes a significant imbalance in the rights and obligations of the parties arising under the contract to the detriment of the consumer.

Application of Part IIIA

24B. Without prejudice to the provisions in the Contracts Act 1950, the Specific Relief Act 1950 [Act 137], the Sale of Goods Act 1957 [Act 382] and the provisions of any other law for the time being in force, the provisions of this Part shall apply to all contracts.

General procedural unfairness

24c. (1) A contract or a term of a contract is procedurally unfair if it has resulted in an unjust advantage to the supplier or unjust disadvantage to the consumer on account of the conduct of the supplier or the manner in which or circumstances under which the contract or the term of the contract has been entered into or has been arrived at by the consumer and supplier.

(2) For the purposes of this section, a court or the Tribunal may take into account the following circumstances:

- (a) the knowledge and understanding of the consumer in relation to the meaning of the terms of the contract or their effect;
- (b) the bargaining strength of the parties to the contract relative to each other;
- (c) reasonable standards of fair dealing;
- (d) whether or not, prior to or at the time of entering into the contract, the terms of the contract were subject to negotiation or were part of a standard form contract;
- (e) whether or not it was reasonably practicable for the consumer to negotiate for the alteration of the contract or a term of the contract or to reject the contract or a term of the contract;
- (f) whether expressions contained in the contract are in fine print or are difficult to read or understand;
- (g) whether or not, even if the consumer had the competency to enter into the contract based on his or her capacity and soundness of mind, the consumer—

- (i) was not reasonably able to protect his or her own interests or of those whom he or she represented at the time the contract was entered; or
 - (ii) suffered serious disadvantages in relation to other parties because the consumer was unable to appreciate adequately the contract or a term of the contract or its implications by reason of age, sickness, or physical, mental, educational or linguistic disability, or emotional distress or ignorance of business affairs;
- (h) whether or not independent legal or other expert advice was obtained by the consumer who entered into the contract;
- (i) the extent, if any, to which the provisions of the contract or a term of the contract or its legal or practical effect was accurately explained by any person to the consumer who entered into the contract;
- (j) the conduct of the parties who entered into the contract in relation to similar contracts or courses of dealing between them; and
- (k) whether the consumer relied on the skill, care or advice of the supplier or a person connected with the supplier in entering into the contract.

General substantive unfairness

24D. (1) A contract or a term of a contract is substantively unfair if the contract or the term of the contract—

- (a) is in itself harsh;
- (b) is oppressive;

- (c) is unconscionable;
- (d) excludes or restricts liability for negligence; or
- (e) excludes or restricts liability for breach of express or implied terms of the contract without adequate justification.

(2) For the purposes of this section, a court or the Tribunal may take into account the following circumstances:

- (a) whether or not the contract or a term of the contract imposes conditions—
 - (i) which are unreasonably difficult to comply with; or
 - (ii) which are not reasonably necessary for the protection of the legitimate interests of the supplier who is a party to the contract;
- (b) whether the contract is oral or wholly or partly in writing;
- (c) whether the contract is in standard form;
- (d) whether the contract or a term of the contract is contrary to reasonable standards of fair dealing;
- (e) whether the contract or a term of the contract has resulted in a substantially unequal exchange of monetary values or in a substantive imbalance between the parties;
- (f) whether the benefits to be received by the consumer who entered into the contract are manifestly disproportionate or inappropriate, to his or her circumstances;
- (g) whether the consumer who entered into the contract was in a fiduciary relationship with the supplier; and

- (h) whether the contract or a term of the contract—
- (i) requires manifestly excessive security for the performance of contractual obligations;
 - (ii) imposes penalties which are disproportionate to the consequences of a breach of contract;
 - (iii) denies or penalizes the early repayment of debts;
 - (iv) entitles the supplier to terminate the contract unilaterally without good reason or without paying reasonable compensation; or
 - (v) entitles the supplier to modify the terms of the contract unilaterally.

Burden of proof

24E. If a contract or a term of a contract excludes or restricts liability, or excludes rights, duties and liabilities, it is for the supplier relying on such exclusion or restriction to prove that it is not without adequate justification.

Power to raise an issue of unfairness

24F. A court or the Tribunal may, in proceedings before it, raise an issue as to whether a contract or its terms are unfair under sections 24C and 24D, even if none of the parties has raised the issue in its pleadings.

Effect of unfair terms

24G. (1) In this Part, where a court or the Tribunal comes to the conclusion, having regard to sections 24C and 24D that a contract or a term of a contract is either procedurally or substantively unfair or both, the court or the Tribunal may declare the contract or the term of the contract as unenforceable or void and the court may grant judgment, and the Tribunal may make an award as provided for under section 112 of this Act.

(2) A court or the Tribunal may determine if any of the terms of the contract which are either procedurally or substantially unfair, or both, are severable, and whether and to what extent and in what manner, the remaining terms of the contract can be enforced or given effect to.

Executed contracts

24H. A court may grant judgment, and the Tribunal may make an award as provided for under section 112 of this Act, notwithstanding that the contract has been wholly or partly executed and for that purpose the court or Tribunal may consider—

- (a) whether and to what extent restitution is possible in the facts and circumstances of the case; and
- (b) where such restitution is not possible, either wholly or partly, whether any compensation is payable.

Contravention of Part IIIA to be an offence

24I. (1) Any person who contravenes any of the provisions of this Part commits an offence and shall on conviction be liable—

- (a) if such person is a body corporate, to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty thousand ringgit, and for a second or subsequent offence, to a fine not exceeding five hundred thousand ringgit;
- (b) if such person is not a body corporate, to a fine not exceeding one hundred thousand ringgit or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years, or to both, and for a second or subsequent offence, to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty thousand ringgit or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six years, or to both.

(2) In the case of a continuing offence, the offender shall, in addition to the penalties under subsection (1), be liable to a fine not exceeding two thousand ringgit for each day or part of a day during which the offence continues after conviction.

Regulations relating to unfair contract terms

24J. The Minister may make such regulations as may be necessary or expedient in respect of this Part.

PART V

GUARANTEES IN RESPECT OF SUPPLY OF GOODS

Application

30. The implied guarantees under this Part shall apply whether or not the goods are supplied in connection with services.

Implied guarantee as to title

31. (1) Subject to subsection (5), the following guarantees shall be implied where goods are supplied to a consumer:

- (a) that the supplier has a right to sell the goods;
- (b) that the goods are free from any undisclosed security; and
- (c) that the consumer has a right to quiet possession of the goods, except in so far as that right is varied by—
 - (i) a term of the agreement for supply where that agreement is a hire-purchase agreement within the meaning of the Hire-Purchase Act 1967 [Act 212];
 - (ii) a disclosed security; or
 - (iii) a term of the agreement for supply.

(2) Where subparagraphs (1)(c)(ii) and (iii) apply, the supplier shall first orally advise the consumer as to the way in which his right to quiet possession of the goods may be varied.

(3) The advice given by the supplier under subsection (2) shall be as may be sufficient to enable a reasonable consumer to understand the general nature and effect of the variation.

(4) Where a consumer has received oral advice under subsection (2)—

(a) the supplier shall give to the consumer a written copy of the security or agreement for supply or a written copy of the part thereof which provides for the variation as explained to the consumer under subsection (2); and

(b) the consumer shall acknowledge receipt thereof in writing.

(5) Where the goods are only hired or leased—

(a) paragraphs (1)(a) and (b) shall not apply; and

(b) paragraph (1)(c) shall confer a right to quiet possession of the goods only for the period of the hire or lease.

- (ii) acceptable in appearance and finish;
- (iii) free from minor defects;
- (iv) safe; and
- (v) durable; and

(b) a reasonable consumer fully acquainted with the state and condition of the goods, including any hidden defects, would regard the goods as acceptable having regard to—

- (i) the nature of the goods;
- (ii) the price;
- (iii) any statements made about the goods on any packaging or label on the goods;
- (iv) any representation made about the goods by the supplier or the manufacturer; and
- (v) all other relevant circumstances of the supply of the goods.

(3) Where any defects in the goods have been specifically drawn to the consumer's attention before he agrees to the supply, then, the goods shall not be deemed to have failed to comply with the implied guarantee as to acceptable quality by reason only of those defects.

(4) Where goods are displayed for sale or hire, the defects that are to be treated as having been specifically drawn to the consumer's attention for the purposes of subsection (3) shall be defects disclosed on a written notice displayed with the goods.

(5) Goods shall not be deemed to have failed to comply with the implied guarantee as to acceptable quality if—

(a) the goods have been used in a manner or to an extent which is inconsistent with the manner or extent of use that a reasonable consumer would expect to obtain from the goods; and

(b) the goods would have complied with the implied guarantee as to acceptable quality if they had not been used in that manner or to that extent.

(6) A reference in subsections (3) and (4) to a defect is a reference to any failure of the goods to comply with the implied guarantee as to acceptable quality.

Implied guarantee as to fitness for particular purpose

33. (1) Subject to subsection (2), the following guarantees shall be implied where goods are supplied to a consumer:

(3) This section shall apply whether or not the purpose is a purpose as to which the goods are commonly supplied.

Implied guarantee that goods comply with description

34. (1) Where goods are supplied by description to a consumer, there shall be implied a guarantee that the goods correspond with description.

(2) A supply of goods is not prevented from being a supply by description by reason only that, being exposed for sale or hire, they are selected by a consumer.

(3) If the goods are supplied by reference to a sample or demonstration model as well as by description, the implied guarantees in this section and section 35 shall apply.

Implied guarantee that goods comply with sample

- (b) left to be determined in a manner agreed by the contract;
or
- (c) left to be determined by the course of dealing between the parties.

(2) Where there is a failure to comply with the implied guarantee under subsection (1), the consumer's only right of redress shall be to refuse to pay more than the reasonable price.

(3) Nothing in Part VI shall be taken to confer on the consumer any other right of redress.

(4) For the purposes of this section, what is a "reasonable price" shall be a question of fact depending on the circumstances of each particular case, and where the price has been fixed under any written law, the reasonable price shall be as may be specified under that written law.

Implied guarantee as to repairs and spare parts

37. (1) Where imported or locally manufactured goods are supplied to a consumer, there shall be implied a guarantee that the manufacturer and the supplier will take reasonable action to ensure that facilities for the repair of the goods and the supply of spare parts for the goods are reasonably available for a reasonable period after the goods are so supplied.

(2) Subsection (1) shall not apply where reasonable action has been taken to notify the consumer, at or before the time the imported or locally manufactured goods are supplied, that the manufacturer or the supplier or both does not undertake that repair facilities and spare parts will be available for those goods.

(3) Where reasonable action has been taken to notify the consumer, at or before the time the goods are supplied, that the manufacturer or supplier or both does not undertake that repair facilities and spare parts will be available for those goods after the expiration of a specified period, subsection (1) shall not apply in relation to the imported or locally manufactured goods after the expiration of that period.

Manufacturer's express guarantee

38. (1) An express guarantee given by a manufacturer of goods which are supplied to a consumer shall bind the manufacturer to the extent specified in subsections (2), (3) and (4).

(2) An express guarantee in respect of goods given by a manufacturer in a document binds the manufacturer where the document is given to a consumer with the actual or apparent authority of the manufacturer in connection with the supply by a supplier of those goods to the consumer.

(3) An express guarantee which is included in a document relating to the goods and which appears to have been made by the manufacturer of the goods shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be presumed to have been made by the manufacturer.

(4) Proof that a consumer was given a document containing express guarantees by a manufacturer in respect of goods in connection with the supply of those goods to the consumer shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, constitute proof that the document was given to the consumer with the authority of the manufacturer.

(5) For the purposes of this section, “express guarantee”, in relation to any goods, means an undertaking, assertion or representation in relation to—

- (a) the quality, performance or characteristics of the goods;
- (b) the provision of services that are or may at any time be required in respect of the goods;
- (c) the supply of parts that are or may at any time be required for the goods;
- (d) the future availability of identical goods, or of goods constituting or forming part of a set of which the goods in relation to which the undertaking, assertion or representation is given or made form part of; or
- (e) the return of money or other consideration should the goods not meet any undertaking by the guarantor, given or made in connection with the supply of the goods or in connection with the promotion by any means of the supply or use of the goods.

PART VI

RIGHTS AGAINST SUPPLIERS IN RESPECT OF GUARANTEES IN THE SUPPLY OF GOODS

Consumer’s right of redress against suppliers

39. This Part gives a consumer a right of redress against a supplier of goods where the goods fail to comply with any of the implied guarantees under sections 31 to 37.

Exception in respect of implied guarantee as to acceptable quality

40. Notwithstanding section 39, there shall be no right of redress against the supplier of goods under this Act in respect of the failure of the goods to comply with the implied guarantee as to acceptable quality where—

- (a) the manufacturer makes a representation in respect of the goods otherwise than by a statement on any packaging or label; and
- (b) the goods would have complied with the implied guarantee as to acceptable quality if that representation had not been made.

Options against suppliers where goods do not comply with guarantees

41. (1) Where a consumer has a right of redress against the supplier under this Part in respect of the failure of any goods to comply with a guarantee under Part V, the consumer may exercise the following remedies:

- (a) where the failure is one that can be remedied, the consumer may require the supplier to remedy the failure within a reasonable time in accordance with section 42; and
- (b) where the failure is one that cannot be remedied or is of a substantial character within the meaning of section 44, the consumer may—
 - (i) subject to section 43, reject the goods in accordance with section 45; or
 - (ii) obtain from the supplier damages in compensation for any reduction in the value of the goods below the price paid or payable by the consumer for the goods.

(2) In addition to the remedies under subsection (1), the consumer may obtain from the supplier damages for any loss or damage suffered by the consumer, other than loss or damage through a reduction in the value of the goods, which is proved to be a result or consequence of the failure.

(3) Where the supplier refuses or neglects to remedy the failure as required under paragraph (1)(a), or refuses or neglects to do so within a reasonable time, the consumer may—

- (a) have the failure remedied elsewhere and obtain from the supplier all reasonable costs incurred in having the failure remedied; or
- (b) subject to section 43, reject the goods in accordance with section 45.

Satisfaction of requirement to remedy a failure

42. (1) A supplier may satisfy a requirement under section 41 to remedy a failure of any goods to comply with a guarantee by—

- (a) where the failure does not relate to title, repairing the goods;
- (b) where the failure relates to title, curing any defect in title;
- (c) replacing the goods with goods of identical type; or
- (d) providing a refund of any money paid or other consideration provided by the consumer in respect of the goods where the supplier cannot reasonably be expected to repair or replace the goods or cure any defect in title.

(2) Where a consumer obtains goods to replace defective goods under paragraph (1)(c), the replacement goods shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be supplied by the supplier and the guarantees and obligations under this Act relating to the supply of goods to a consumer shall apply to the replacement goods.

(3) A refund under paragraph (1)(d) means a refund in cash of the money paid or the value of any other consideration provided, or both, as the case may require.

Loss of right to reject goods

43. (1) The right conferred under this Act to reject goods shall not apply where—

- (a) the right is not exercised within a reasonable time;
- (b) the goods have been disposed of by the consumer;
- (c) the goods have been lost or destroyed while in the possession of a person other than the supplier;
- (d) the goods were damaged after delivery to the consumer for reasons not related to their state or condition at the time of supply; or
- (e) the goods have been attached to or incorporated in any real or personal property and the goods cannot be detached or isolated without damaging them.

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(a), “reasonable time” means a period from the time of the supply of the goods within which it would be reasonable to expect the defect to become apparent having regard to—

- (a) the type of goods;
- (b) the use to which a consumer is likely to put the goods;

- (c) the length of time for which it is reasonable for the goods to be used; and
- (d) the amount of use to which it is reasonable for the goods to be put before the defect becomes apparent.

Failure of substantial character

44. For the purposes of paragraph 41(1)(b), a failure to comply with a guarantee shall be of a substantial character where—

- (a) the goods would not have been acquired by a reasonable consumer fully acquainted with the nature and extent of the failure;
- (b) the goods depart in one or more significant respects from the description by which they were supplied or, where they were supplied by reference to a sample or demonstration model, from the sample or demonstration model;
- (c) the goods are—
 - (i) substantially unfit for a purpose for which goods of the type in question are commonly supplied; or
 - (ii) where subsection 33(1) applies, unfit for a particular purpose made known to the supplier or represented by the supplier to be a purpose for which the goods would be fit, and the goods cannot easily and within a reasonable time be remedied to make them fit for such purpose; or

- (d) the goods are not of acceptable quality within the meaning of section 32 because they are unsafe.

Manner of rejecting goods

45. (1) The consumer shall exercise the right conferred under this Act to reject goods by notifying the supplier of the decision to reject the goods and of the ground or grounds for the rejection.

(2) Where the consumer exercises the right to reject goods, the consumer shall return the rejected goods to the supplier unless—

(a) because of—

(i) the nature of the failure to comply with the guarantee in respect of which the consumer has the right to reject the goods; or

(ii) the size or height or method of attachment, the goods cannot be returned or removed or transported without significant cost to the consumer, in which case the supplier shall collect the goods at its own expense;

(b) because of the method of attachment, the goods cannot be returned or removed without significant damage to the real or personal property to which they are attached, in which case the supplier shall compensate the consumer for any loss or damage resulting from or consequent upon such removal; or

(c) the goods have already been returned to, or retrieved by, the supplier.

(3) Where the ownership in the goods has passed to the consumer before the consumer exercises the right of rejection, the ownership in the goods re-vests in the supplier upon notification of rejection.

Consumer's option of refund or replacement

46. (1) Where the consumer exercises the right to reject goods conferred under this Act, the consumer may choose to have—

(a) a refund of any money paid or other consideration provided by the consumer in respect of the rejected goods;
or

(b) goods of the same type and of similar value to replace the rejected goods where such goods are reasonably available to the supplier as part of the stock of the supplier, and the supplier shall make provision accordingly.

(2) A refund referred to in paragraph (1)(a) means a refund in cash of the money paid or the value of any other consideration provided, or both, as the case may require.

(3) The obligation to refund cannot be satisfied by permitting the consumer to acquire other goods from the supplier.

(4) Where a consumer obtains goods to replace rejected goods under paragraph (1)(b), the replacement goods shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be supplied by the supplier, and the guarantees and obligations under this Act relating to the supply of goods to a consumer shall apply to the replacement goods.

Assessment of damages in case of hire-purchase agreements

47. The damages that a consumer may recover for a failure of goods supplied under a hire-purchase agreement to comply with a guarantee under this Act shall be assessed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, on the basis that the consumer will complete the purchase of the goods or would have completed the purchase if the goods had complied with the guarantee.

Liability for representation

48. (1) Where goods assigned or procured to be assigned to the supplier by a person acting in trade (the “dealer”) are supplied to a consumer, every representation made to the consumer by the dealer or by any person acting on the dealer’s behalf in connection with, or in the course of negotiations leading to, the supply of the goods shall give the consumer—

- (a) as against the supplier, subject to section 49, the same rights as the consumer would have had under this Act if the representation had been made by the supplier personally; and
- (b) as against the dealer who made the representation and any person on whose behalf the dealer was acting in making it, the same rights against any or all of them personally as the consumer would have had under this Act if that person had supplied the goods to the consumer as a result of the negotiations.

(2) Without prejudice to any other rights or remedies to which a supplier may be entitled, a supplier shall be entitled, where the representation was made without his express or implied authority, to be indemnified by the dealer who made the representation and by any person on whose behalf the dealer was acting in making it, against any damage suffered by the supplier through the operation of subsection (1).

Liability of assignees and financiers

49. (1) This section shall apply only in respect of hire-purchase agreements.

(2) The liability under this Act of an assignee of the rights of a supplier under a contract of supply shall not exceed the amount owing by the consumer under the contract at the date of the assignment.

(3) The liability under this Act of a financier who has lent money on the security of goods supplied to a consumer shall not exceed the amount owing by the consumer at the date of the loan.

(4) Where the assignee referred to in subsection (2) or the financier referred to in subsection (3) suffers any losses because of a liability to the consumer under this Act, the assignee or financier shall, subject to any agreement with the supplier, be entitled to be indemnified by the supplier against those losses.

(5) No assignment of the rights under a contract of supply shall affect the exercise of any right or remedy given under this Act against the supplier.

PART VII

RIGHTS AGAINST MANUFACTURERS IN RESPECT OF GUARANTEES IN THE SUPPLY OF GOODS

Consumer's right of redress against manufacturers

50. This Part gives a consumer a right of redress against a manufacturer of goods where—

- (a) the goods fail to comply with the implied guarantee as to acceptable quality under section 32;

- (c) the goods fail to comply with the implied guarantee as to repairs and spare parts under section 37;

- (d) the goods fail, during the currency of the guarantee, to comply with any express guarantee given by the manufacturer that is binding on the manufacturer in accordance with section 38.

Exceptions to right of redress against manufacturers

51. Notwithstanding section 50, there shall be no right of redress against the manufacturer under this Act in respect of goods which fail to comply with the implied guarantee under section 32 or 34 where the failure is due to—

- (a) an act, default or omission of, or any representation made by, a person other than the manufacturer; or
- (b) a cause independent of human control, occurring after the goods have left the control of the manufacturer.

Options against manufacturers where goods do not comply with guarantees

52. (1) Where a consumer has a right of redress against the manufacturer under this Part in respect of the failure of any goods to comply with a guarantee under Part V, the consumer may obtain damages from the manufacturer—

- (a) for the reduction in the value of the goods resulting from the manufacturer's failure, namely—
 - (i) the reduction below the price paid or payable by the consumer for the goods; or
 - (ii) the reduction below the average retail price of the goods at the time of supply, whichever price is lower;

- (b) for any loss or damage to the consumer resulting from the manufacturer's failure, other than loss or damage through a reduction in the value of the goods, which is proved to be a result or consequence of the failure.

(2) Where the consumer is entitled by an express guarantee given by the manufacturer to require the manufacturer to remedy the failure by—

- (a) repairing the goods; or
- (b) replacing the goods with goods of identical type,

no action shall be commenced under paragraph (1)(a) unless the consumer has required the manufacturer to remedy the failure and the manufacturer has refused or neglected to remedy, or has not succeeded in remedying, the failure within a reasonable time.

PART VIII

GUARANTEES IN RESPECT OF SUPPLY OF SERVICES

Implied guarantee as to reasonable care and skill

53. Where services are supplied to a consumer, there shall be implied a guarantee that the services will be carried out with reasonable care and skill and that any material supplied in connection with such services will be fit for the purpose for which it is supplied.

Implied guarantee as to fitness for particular purpose

54. (1) Where services are supplied to a consumer, there shall be implied a guarantee that the services, and any product resulting from the services, will be—

- (a) reasonably fit for any particular purpose; and

- (b) of such nature and quality that it can reasonably be expected to achieve any particular result, that the consumer makes known to the supplier, before or at the time of the making of the contract for the supply of the services, as the particular purpose for which the services are required or the result that the consumer desires to achieve.

(2) The implied guarantees referred to in subsection (1) shall not apply where the circumstances show that—

- (a) the consumer does not rely on the supplier's skill or judgment; or
- (b) it is unreasonable for the consumer to rely on the supplier's skill or judgment.

Implied guarantee as to time of completion

55. Where services are supplied to a consumer, there shall be implied a guarantee that the services will be completed within a reasonable time where the time for the services to be carried out is not—

- (a) determined by the contract;
- (b) left to be determined in a manner agreed by the contract; or
- (c) left to be determined by the course of dealing between the parties.

Implied guarantee as to price

56. (1) Where services are supplied to a consumer, there shall be implied a guarantee that the consumer shall not be liable to pay to the supplier more than the reasonable price for the services where the price for the services is not—

- (a) determined by the contract;
- (b) left to be determined in a manner agreed by the contract;
- (c) left to be determined by the course of dealing between the parties.

(2) Where there is a failure to comply with the implied guarantee under subsection (1), the consumer's only right of redress shall be to refuse to pay more than the reasonable price.

(3) Nothing in Part IX shall be taken to confer on the consumer any other right of redress.

(4) For the purposes of this section, what is a "reasonable price" shall be a question of fact depending on the circumstances of each particular case, and where the price has been fixed under any written law, the reasonable price shall be as may be specified under that written law.

PART IX

RIGHTS AGAINST SUPPLIERS IN RESPECT OF GUARANTEES IN THE SUPPLY OF SERVICES

Consumer's right of redress against suppliers

57. This Part gives a consumer a right of redress against a supplier of services where the services or product resulting from the services fail to comply with any of the implied guarantees under sections 53 to 55.

Exceptions to right of redress against supplier in relation to services

58. Notwithstanding section 57, there shall be no right of redress against the supplier under this Act in respect of the failure of the services or any product resulting from the services to comply with the implied guarantee under section 54 or 55 where the failure is due to—

- (a) an act, default or omission of, or any representation made by, a person other than the supplier; or
- (b) a cause independent of human control.

Contracts of work and materials

59. Nothing in section 57 shall limit or affect the rights of a consumer under Part VI or VII where the contract is one involving work and materials.

Options against suppliers where services do not comply with guarantees

60. (1) Where a consumer has a right of redress against the supplier under this Part in respect of the failure of any services or any product resulting from the services to comply with a guarantee under Part VIII, the consumer may exercise the following remedies:

- (a) where the failure is one that can be remedied, the consumer may require the supplier to remedy the failure within a reasonable time;
- (b) where the failure is one that cannot be remedied or is of a substantial character within the meaning of section 62, the consumer may—
 - (i) subject to section 61, cancel the contract for the supply of the services in accordance with section 63; or
 - (ii) obtain from the supplier damages in compensation for any reduction in the value of the product resulting from the services below the charge paid or payable by the consumer for the services.

(2) In addition to the remedies under subsection (1), the consumer may obtain from the supplier damages for any loss or damage suffered by the consumer, other than loss or damage through a reduction in the value of the product resulting from the services, which is proved to be a result or consequence of the failure.

(3) Where the supplier refuses or neglects to remedy the failure as required under paragraph (1)(a), or refuses or neglects to do so within a reasonable time, the consumer may—

- (a) have the failure remedied elsewhere and obtain from the supplier all reasonable costs incurred in having the failure remedied; or
- (b) subject to section 61, cancel the contract for the supply of the services in accordance with section 63.

Loss of right to cancel contract

61. The right conferred under this Act to cancel a contract shall not apply where—

- (a) the services supplied under the contract is merely incidental to the supply of the goods; and
- (b) the consumer has or had the right to reject the goods under section 41, whether or not he exercises that right.

Failure of substantial character

62. For the purposes of paragraph 60(1)(b), a failure to comply with a guarantee shall be of a substantial character where—

- (a) the product resulting from the services—

- (i) is substantially unfit for a purpose for which services of the type in question are commonly supplied; or
- (ii) where subsection 54(1) applies—
 - (A) is unfit for a particular purpose made known to the supplier; or
 - (B) of such a nature and quality that the product cannot be expected to achieve a particular result made known to the supplier, and the product cannot easily and within a reasonable time be remedied to make it fit for the particular purpose or to achieve the particular result; or

- (b) the product resulting from the services is unsafe.

Rules applying to cancellation of contract

63. (1) A cancellation of a contract for the supply of services shall not take effect—

- (a) before the time at which the cancellation is communicated to the supplier; or
- (b) where it is not reasonably practicable to communicate with the supplier, before the time at which the consumer indicates to the supplier, by means which are reasonable in the circumstances, his intention to cancel the contract.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), a cancellation of the contract may be communicated by words or conduct or both which indicate the intention of the consumer to cancel the contract, and it shall not be necessary to use any particular form of words, as long as the intention to cancel is clear.

(3) Where it is reasonably practicable to communicate with the supplier, subsection (2) shall take effect subject to any express provision in the contract requiring notice of cancellation to be in writing.

Effect of cancellation of contract

64. (1) Where the consumer exercises the right conferred under this Act to cancel a contract for the supply of services—

- (a) the consumer shall be entitled to obtain from the supplier a refund of any money paid or other consideration provided in respect of the services unless a court or the Tribunal, as the case may be, orders that the supplier may retain the whole or any part of the money paid or other consideration provided by the consumer;
- (b) in so far as the contract has been performed at the time of the cancellation, no party shall by reason of the cancellation be divested of any property transferred or money paid under the contract, except as provided under paragraph (a); and
- (c) in so far as the contract remains unperformed at the time of the cancellation, no party shall be obliged or entitled to perform it further.

(2) Nothing in subsection (1) shall affect—

- (a) the right of a party to recover damages in respect of a misrepresentation or the repudiation or breach of the contract by another party;
- (b) the right of the consumer to obtain damages under subparagraph 60(1)(b)(ii) or subsection 60(2) for failure to comply with a guarantee; or

- (c) the right of the consumer under this Act to reject goods supplied in connection with the services.

Power of court to grant ancillary relief

65. (1) Where the consumer cancels a contract for the supply of services under this Act, a court, in any proceedings or on an application made for the purpose, may make any order or orders granting relief under this section as it thinks just and practicable to do so.

(2) An application for an order under this section may be made by—

- (a) the consumer;
- (b) the supplier; or
- (c) any other person who has suffered loss.

(3) An order under this section may—

- (a) vest in any party to the proceedings the whole or any part of any real or personal property that was the subject of the contract or was the whole or part of the consideration for it;
- (b) direct any party to the proceedings to transfer or assign to any other such party or to give him the possession of the whole or any part of any real or personal property that was the subject of the contract or was the whole or part of the consideration for it;
- (c) without prejudice to any right to recover damages, direct any party to the proceedings to pay to any other such party such sum as the court thinks just; or

- (d) permit a supplier to retain the whole or any part of any money paid or other consideration provided in respect of the services under the contract.

(4) An order under subsection (1) or any provision of it, may be made on and subject to such terms and conditions as the court thinks fit, not being a term or condition that would have the effect of preventing a claim for damages by any party.

(5) In considering whether to make an order under this section, and in considering the terms and conditions it proposes to impose, the court shall have regard to the following:

- (a) any benefit or advantage obtained by the consumer by reason of anything done by the supplier in or for the purpose of supplying the services;
- (b) the value, in the opinion of the court, of any work or services performed by the supplier in or for the purpose of supplying the services;
- (c) any expenditure incurred by the consumer or the supplier in or for the purpose of the performance of the services;
- (d) the extent to which the supplier or the consumer was or would have been able to perform the contract in whole or in part; and
- (e) such other matters as the court thinks fit.

(6) No order under paragraph (3)(a) shall be made if it would have the effect of depriving a person, not being a party to the contract, of the possession of, or any estate or interest in, any property acquired by him in good faith and for valuable consideration.

(7) No order shall be made under this section in respect of any property if any party to the contract has so altered his position in relation to the property, whether before or after the cancellation of the contract, that having regard to all the relevant circumstances, it would,

in the opinion of the court, be inequitable to any party to make such an order.

PART X

PRODUCT LIABILITY

Interpretation

66. (1) In this Part, unless the context otherwise requires—

“agricultural produce” means any produce of the soil, of stock farming or of fisheries;

“damage” means death or personal injury, or any loss of or damage to any property, including land, as the case may require;

“dependant” has the same meaning as in the Civil Law Act 1956 [Act 67];

“producer”, in relation to a product, means—

- (a) the person who manufactured it;
- (b) in the case of a substance which is not manufactured but is won or abstracted, the person who won or abstracted it;
- (c) in the case of a product which is not manufactured, won or abstracted but the essential characteristics of which are attributable to an industrial or other process having been carried out, the person who carried out that process;.

“product” means any goods and, subject to subsection (2), includes a product which is comprised in another product, whether by virtue of being a component part, raw material or otherwise.

(2) For the purposes of this Part, a person who supplies any product in which other products are comprised therein, whether by virtue of being a component part, raw material or otherwise, shall not be treated by reason only of his supply of that product as supplying any of the products so comprised therein.

Meaning of “defect”

67. (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), there is a defect in a product for the purposes of this Part if the safety of the product is not such as a person is generally entitled to expect.

(2) In determining what a person is generally entitled to expect in relation to a product, all relevant circumstances shall be taken into account including—

- (a) the manner in which, and the purposes for which, the product has been marketed;
- (b) the get-up of the product;
- (c) the use of any mark in relation to the product;
- (d) instructions for or warnings with respect to doing or refraining from doing anything with or in relation to the product;
- (e) what may reasonably be expected to be done with, or in relation to, the product; and
- (f) the time when the product was supplied by its producer to another person.

(3) Nothing in this section shall require a defect to be inferred from the mere fact that the safety of a product which is subsequently supplied is greater than the safety of the product in question.

(4) For the purposes of this section, “safety”, in relation to a product, shall include—

- (a) safety with respect to products comprised therein;
- (b) safety in the context of risk of damage to property; and
- (c) safety in the context of risk of death or personal injury.

Liability for defective products

68. (1) Where any damage is caused wholly or partly by a defect in a product, the following persons shall be liable for the damage:

- (a) the producer of the product;
- (b) the person who, by putting his name on the product or using a trade mark or other distinguishing mark in relation to the product, has held himself out to be the producer of the product; and
- (c) the person who has, in the course of his business, imported the product into Malaysia in order to supply it to another person.

(2) Where damage is caused wholly or partly by a defect in a product, the person who suffered the damage may within a reasonable period after the damage occurs request the supplier to identify any or all of the persons referred to in subsection (1), whether or not he is or they are still in existence.

(3) For the purpose of subsection (2), it is immaterial whether the supplier supplied the defective product to—

- (a) the person who suffered the damage;
- (b) the producer of a product in which the defective product is comprised therein; or
- (c) any other person.

(4) Where the supplier fails to comply with a request under subsection (2) within a reasonable time having regard to all the circumstances, the supplier shall be held liable for the loss or damage.

(5) This section shall not apply to a person in respect of any defect in agricultural produce if the only supply of the agricultural produce by the person to another person was at a time when the agricultural produce has not undergone any industrial process.

(6) Where two or more persons are liable under this Part for the same damage, their liability shall be joint and several.

(7) This section shall be without prejudice to any liability arising otherwise than under this Part.

(8) The Minister may, by order published in the Gazette, declare that no proceeding shall be brought before the Tribunal or any court in respect of any defect in any goods after the expiry of such period calculated from the date of manufacture of such goods or class or both of such goods as may be specified in the order; and upon the making of such declaration, no proceeding shall be brought in respect of such defect before the Tribunal or any court.

Extent of liability for loss or damage

69. (1) Where any damage is caused wholly or partly by a defect in a product, the liability of the person liable for the damage under section 68 shall not include the loss of or damage to—

- (a) the defective product;
- (b) the whole or any part of the product which comprises the defective product; or
- (c) any property which at the time it is lost or damaged is not—

- (i) of a description of property ordinarily intended for private use, occupation or consumption; and
- (ii) intended by the person suffering the loss or damage mainly for his own private use, occupation or consumption.

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(c), loss or damage to property shall be deemed to have occurred at the earliest time at which a person with an interest in the property has knowledge of the material facts about the loss or damage.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2)—

- (a) the material facts about any loss or damage to any property are such facts about the loss or damage as would lead a reasonable person with an interest in the property to consider the loss or damage sufficiently serious to justify his instituting proceedings for damages against a defendant who does not dispute liability and is able to satisfy a judgment against him;
- (b) a person's knowledge includes knowledge which he may reasonably be expected to acquire—
 - (i) from facts observable or ascertainable by him; or
 - (ii) from facts ascertainable by him with the help of appropriate expert advice which it is reasonable for him to seek:

Provided that a person shall not be deemed to have knowledge of a fact ascertainable by him only with the help of expert advice unless he has failed to take all reasonable steps to obtain and where appropriate, to act on that advice.

Application of other written law

70. (1) For the purposes of a claim under the Civil Law Act 1956, any damage for which a person is liable under section 68 shall be deemed to have been caused by the person's wrongful act, neglect or default.

(2) Where the person who suffered the damage caused wholly or partly by a defect in a product dies after suffering the damage, the request to the supplier under subsection 68(3) may, for the purposes of a claim under the Civil Law Act 1956, be made by the personal representative or dependant, as the case may be, of the deceased person.

(3) Where any damage is caused partly by a defect in a product and partly by the fault of the person who suffered the damage, the Civil Law Act 1956 shall have effect as if the defect were the fault of every person liable under this Part for the damage caused by the defect.

(4) For the purposes of any written law conferring jurisdiction on any court with respect to any matter, liability for damage under this Part shall be treated as liability in tort.

(5) For the purposes of subsection (3), "fault" has the same meaning as in the Civil Law Act 1956.

Prohibition on exclusion from liability

71. The liability of a person under this Part to a person who has suffered damage caused wholly or partly by a defect in a product, or to a dependant of such a person, shall not be limited or excluded by any contract term, notice or other provision.

Defences

72. (1) In any civil proceeding under this Part against any person in respect of a defect in a product, it shall be a defence for that person to show—

- (a) that the defect is attributable to compliance with any requirement imposed under any written law;
 - (b) that he did not at any time supply the defective product to another person;
 - (c) that the defect did not exist in the product at the relevant time;
 - (d) that the state of scientific and technical knowledge at the relevant time was not such that a producer of products of the same description as the product in question may reasonably be expected to discover the defect if it had existed in his product while it was under his control; or
 - (e) that the defect—
 - (i) is a defect in a product in which the product in question is comprised therein (the “subsequent product”); and
 - (ii) is wholly attributable to—
 - (A) the design of the subsequent product; or
 - (B) compliance by the producer of the product in question with instructions given by the producer of the subsequent product.
- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1), “relevant time”—
- (a) in relation to electricity, means the time at which it was generated, being a time before it was transmitted or distributed; and
 - (b) in relation to any other product, means—

- (i) where section 68 applies, the time when the producer supplied the product to another person; and
- (ii) where section 68 does not apply, the time when the product was last supplied by a person to whom section 68 applies to another person.
